

March 7, 1958

Dear Susan, Olive, Thelma, Ruby, Ralph, Corydalla is giving Susan a ride in her carriage - a horse-drawn - Bernie and Bernice are helping Waddy supervise the digging of a cellar to prevent the heavy rains from washing away our driveway and destroying the road. ~~road~~ In answer to your question about Corydalla, He is Max's and my responsibility to provide school fees, supplies and clothes. On return he works in the house and looks after everything when she needs a ride in the carriage or goes out of the house. He mother, brother and sister needed and his father apparently has not any interest in him. He probably will later though because C. is one of the smartest youngsters in school and we hope will go to London University and become one of the leaders.

Bernie is something but the line really finished the third order in the few. Bernice arrived and will be ready for the printer.
At the table the other day he told me that the boy for his pen was all full - the only boy (in his class) that was not a first class boy! He is better than half a hundred others than Bernice and Bernice is no more! I was asking him if loved him one and that one the other day. His answer including his grand parents was "yes, too much".
When he came to Uncle Sam by said "yes, too much". I love him - how else love him is a small grant. Then he added "I love everybody but tell they are". I guess he was afraid he had hurt our feelings for being so vehement about Uncle Sam. I love to surprise Ralph!
He spent the adorable night.
He has been a picture of him for a long time. When people are surprised then I am to say that he is clean and all ready.